

THE '65 PIRATE

South Pittsburg High School
South Pittsburg, Tennessee

Youth . . .

the golden years, saturated with sunlight,
scented with optimism, warmed by spontaneous laughter

the feverish years, inflamed by unfamiliar emotions, antimated by frantic activity, caught up in the whirling carousel of time the restless years, impatient with today, yet uncertain about tomorrow

the searching years, continually striving to grasp the essence of life

the fleeting years in which the transient bubble of childhood expands with each new experience and suddenly bursts into the unbounded freedom of adulthood

the unmellowed years of discovery that fill the heart with anticipation and stumble unconsciously toward maturity.

Youth is a maze of motions and moods . . .
the awesome wonder over a new school, a laziness that says
"it might as well be spring", wild excitement over a football game, dire disappointment after losing it . . .
and that grinning frolicsomeness that somehow outlives the disappointment and makes the days go fast.

But most important, youth is an awakening . . .
discovering the how's and why's of a complex existence, discovering other people . . .
discovering yourself.

Youth is one day finding yourself gloriously in love . . . with life.

We Dedicate . . .

We, the staff, are pleased and proud to dedicate the 1965 PIRATE to Mrs. Mary Florence Smith--an individual highly respected and well-loved, not only for her work as a teacher but for her unselfish advice and guidance to her students.

Mrs. Smith, yearbook advisor for three years, resigned last year so that she could complete her Master's Degree at the University of Chattanooga. Latin Club advisor, guidance counselor, and Latin and junior English teacher, she still finds time for church responsibilities and civic duties.

Mrs. Smith meets every task or situation with a smile. She is the kind of person about whom books are written--a person whom everyone enjoys being near. Her influence has made a deep and lasting impression on all her students; we are grateful for her advice and are sincerely honored to make this dedication.

It can truly be said that without the assistance of Mrs. Smith many jobs would be left undone. During Latin Week she is chief supervisor, art director, and problem solver.

Sweeping the teachers' lounge is one of the "little" jobs that Mrs. Smith thoughtfully volunteers to do, even in the midst of her usual hectic schedule.

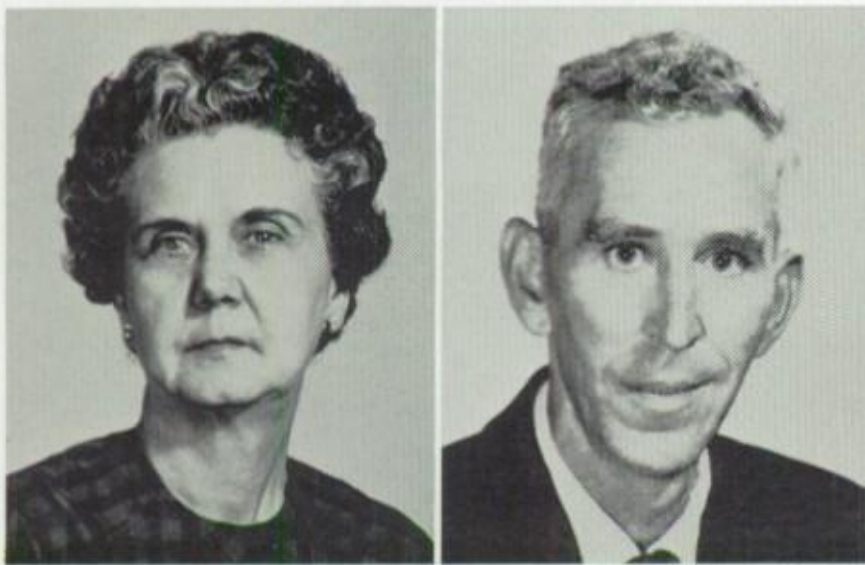

Youth . . .

being an individual in a sea of faces.

Beene and Staff

Each student remembers a certain teacher as the one who instilled in him a fervent desire to excel, to succeed, to go just one step further. Mr. Beene is that kind of teacher. Yet he is more than a teacher; he is our principal, coach, counselor, and above all, he is our friend. Mr. Beene is the willing ear, the soft shoulder to cry on, the fathomless fountain of wisdom.

The faculty assembles to "iron out" problems during the regular Friday afternoon session.

The wise advice of Mr. Hewgley is appreciated by the students in the shop department. The knowledge acquired not only provides a basis for future vocational training, but also develops patience and efficiency.

While the shop classes produce wood products - tables, chairs, bookshelves, gun racks, and chests - the mechanical drawing students concentrate on tedious design.

Faculty Enlightens Young Minds

Language is given special emphasis in academic curricula throughout high school.

Four units of English are compulsory for graduation. Basic to these are the courses offered in the seventh and eighth grades. These junior high classes are directed by Mrs. Carter and Mr. Hamby. In grades nine through twelve, the English department provides excellent courses in grammar and literature. Freshmen are instructed by Mrs. Nunley; sophomores by Miss Metz; juniors by Mrs. Smith; and seniors by Mrs. Beene.

Two Latin units, designed to give a fundamental background in the study of foreign languages, are offered by Mrs. Smith. In addition, two units of Spanish, under the direction of Mr. Hamby, are open to all high school students.

South Pittsburg boasts an excellent mathematics department, offering as credit courses first and second year algebra, plane and solid geometry, trigonometry, and, as college preparatory courses, analytic geometry and calculus. In the junior high Mr. James Warren teaches modern math and the fundamentals of algebra.

Mr. Joe Shadrich, this year's recipient of the South Pittsburg Jaycees' Young Male Teacher Award, teaches a wide range of courses. From seventh grade arithmetic through senior trigonometry, his instruction has enlightened and challenged the best of students.

SENIOR SPONSORS

It's over for them . . .

the long hours of study, the endless pile of homework, the pep rallies, the Monday morning "hang overs", the term papers, the football games, the bonfires, the laughter, the tears . . . the high school years.

Even in the beginning they were the "exceptional class" . . . the largest in number, the highest in scholarship, the richest in talent, the most novel in ideas.

Not once after they entered the ninth grade did they fail to walk away with at least one medal on Honors' Day. They wrote the longest term papers ever written and they completed the largest Latin projects ever begun at S.P.H.S.

Their senior year was their monument . . .

the first school newspaper published since 1924, the first summer year-book, the first National Merit Scholarship finalist in the school's history, the highest scores made on the ACT and SAT by an SPSHS student, the first time four seniors made a perfect score on the Air Force Aptitude Test, the first time one class had two four-year lettermen, the first time two students tied for Valedictorian.

It's over for them . . .

the high school days . . . the young years. But just beginning is a new phase of life. They will build their futures on the foundations they've laid here.

It's over . . .

but they won't forget.

JUNIOR SPONSORS

Being a junior is learning what work is. The textbooks are thicker, the geometry problems harder, the study hours later, the days longer.

Being a junior is learning that seniors are "too busy" and that sophomores are "too inexperienced." It is learning to plan and carry out what you begin because there is no one else to do it.

Being a junior is trying to learn enough about the school paper and yearbook to edit your own next year. It is trying to acquire twenty pounds of muscle so that next year's football team will measure up to everyone's expectations.

Being a junior is finding time to laugh when walls keep "tumbling down."

. . . It is discovering pride in a job well done.

FRESHMAN SPONSORS

There is something about being freshmen . . . something alive and carefree.

Freshmen can remember more jokes, forget more homework, break more rules, pass more notes, waste more time, have more fun, and "get away" with more nonsense than any other student group.

There is something about being freshmen that makes the days seem sunny and the year seem short.

Junior High Students Awaken to a

It is a different world "down under": too much freedom for grade school, too many rules for high school; too big for hide-and-seek, too little for varsity sports; old enough to feel the excitement of a football game, but too young to be a cheerleader; educated enough to take a variety of subjects, but too inexperienced to make the selections.

May 28 marked the graduation of seventy-six seniors - the largest group ever to don caps and gowns at S. P. H. S. This class distinguished itself scholastically many times, always scoring high on achievement and aptitude tests. In many aspects the class of '65 was "a class of firsts." As students, athletes, and leaders of the student body, they left their imprint by the progress they made and the improvements they instituted.

Elaine Lehr, pictured below, was awarded many honors for her versatile achievements this year. In addition to becoming the first National Merit Scholarship Finalist in the history of S. P. H. S., she received the D. A. R. Award, the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award, and the Havron English cup.

Students Gain Recognition in Many Fields

David Allison and Diane Cooley were selected from the junior class to represent South Pittsburg High at Boys' State and Girls' State.

The winners of the annual spelling bee sponsored by the Women's Club were: second place, Elizabeth Rogers; first place, Wilene Witcher; and third place, Susan Rogers.

Award winners of the eighth grade magazine sales, by which the class finances a trip to Nashville, were Darlene Wynne, Camille Ryan, top-seller Jan Jaynes, Margaret Ann Braden, Bob Hill, Terry Horn, and Steve Neperud.

The Orange and Black Staff this year introduced two new dimensions to the publication of the school paper: a printed newspaper and a literary supplement. Editors Janet Williams and Clara Anderson, with Mrs. Beene, proudly display the "excellent" rating received at the THSPA conference in Nashville. Judy Connor, editor of "Reflections", a collection of student poems and essays, thoughtfully scans the finished product.

Going into the final game with Jasper, the Pirates had had an extremely disappointing season while Marion County was atop the S.V.C. standings with only one loss. Marion led 7-0 until the fourth quarter when Larry Phipps intercepted a Bill Baker pass and raced all the way for a touchdown. Again in the fourth quarter the Pirates struck. This time Walter McClain took a punt and ran the length of the field for the final score. The 14-7 victory was the Pirates' third straight football win over Jasper.

. . . an anxious look during the Jasper game - soon changed to one of victory!

Finale

Though the bitterness of defeat was hard to bear, it did not kill the desire to win. Ironically, the Pirates outscored, out-rushed, and out-passed their opponents while winning only three games throughout the season.

Coach James Warren, long renowned for producing successful Grasshopper teams, turned the trick again this year as his boys produced a near-perfect record. These young athletes are being molded into the Pirates of tomorrow by first learning the fundamentals of the game.

Pirate Varsity Demonstrates 'Team

"Team spirit" was the characteristic of the 1964-'65 Pirate basketball squad. The same enthusiasm which kept the boys hustling during the regular season carried them into the semifinals of the 12th District Tournament at Crossville to gain the first District Tourney victory in many years.

The season's results did not reveal the whole story of the efforts of this year's team. According to Coach Brooks, the boys had the best potential of any team in several years, and although they were pressed with hard luck they still mustered a fine season's showing.

The "Termites", composed of a freshman team and a seventh and eighth grade team, completed a winning '65 season, scoring a total of 259 points. The top three scorers were Danny Phipps and Jimmy Peoples, with 35 points each, and Steve Taylor with 31. These future Pirates, coached by Don Grider, demonstrated amazing energy by practicing faithfully at 7:00 each morning during the season.

Danny Phipps, Coach Grider, and Jimmy Peoples plan strategy for future games.

STANDING: S. Vinson, G. Pesnell, J. Raulston, J. Taylor, S. Reinsch, J. Raulston, B. Martin; KNEELING: E. Smith, S. Rogers, coach B. McGraw, J. Miller, C. Bechard.

In the girls' division of the intra-mural basketball tournament the sophomore girls clinched the championship from the senior team, who were winners for two years. Although both teams had great potential, the sophomores seemed to carry their ability onto the court in greater quantities, and thus the mighty seniors were forced to relinquish their title.

FRONT ROW: B. Smith, R. Smith, T. Durham, D. Phipps, D. Kilgore, C. Parham; BACK ROW: M. Wilson, R. Holder, J. Beene, coach, G. Case, B. Thomas, H. Chance, B. Matthews, S. Donahoe, T. Carter.

The senior boys' team won the intra-mural championship in the boys' division. The boys were really spirited on the final game night because after they had out-played the juniors, they went on to gain a victory over the faculty team. This was the first time in several years that the boys have won over the men.

Winners in Intramural Sports

The senior boys won the intramural track with a total of 46 points. The juniors came in second with 21 points, sophomores with 20, and freshmen with 12.

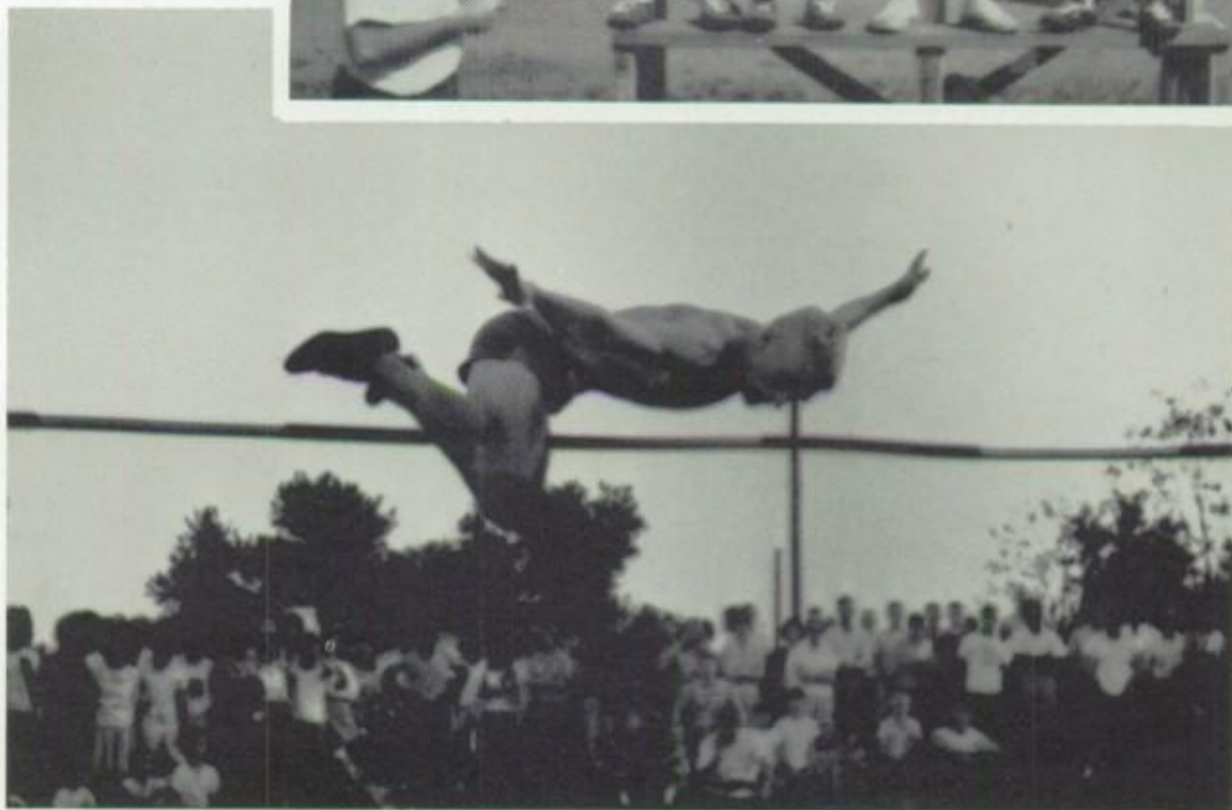

Record breakers in this meet were Donny Phipps, Jim Beene, Gary Wynne, and Larry Phipps (pictured right) who ran the 880-yard relay in 1:45.6, breaking the school record.

Gary Wynne broke the school record for discus throwing; his throw measured 124 feet, 8 inches. In the county track meet, he threw the discus 127 feet, 5 inches.

Terry Siler high jumped 5 feet, 9 inches - another new record.

High jumper Jim Beene won second place in the high jump; Terry Siler was first place winner.

Terry Siler breaks the "ribbon" in the 880-yard run.

Jim Beene, Eddie Larson, and Larry Phipps won first, second, and third place in the 100-yard dash.

KITTY HAMILTON

PAM TAYLOR

Editors

Copy editor Judy Connor, picture editor Linda McCampbell, class editor Ann Price, and feature editor Lynn Raulston have contributed many hours to tedious planning and brain-searching. Their inspirations account for much of the originality of the 1965 Pirate.

Editing an annual is a year-round job. The work begins in early summer and steadily increases until the last deadline is met after graduation. Every page, picture, and headline must be carefully planned so as to capture the activity and significance of the school year.

Editors Kitty Hamilton and Pam Taylor have successfully carried out this responsibility. The combination of Kitty's initiative and Pam's creativity, under the supervision of Mr. Helm, has resulted in an annual that is different from all those previous.

Planning pictures, perfecting rough drafts, and processing final copies prove challenging for Mildred Blevins, Gayle Pesnell, Janet Miller, Betty Ann Wright, Sharon Vinson, Brenda Martin, Susan Rogers, Carol Stevens, and Tommy Shook.

Coverage With Summer Edition Yearbook

In early fall the staff members direct their attention toward the essential task of selling advertisement. Their determination, good salesmanship, and cooperation have resulted in an outstanding sales record for both yearbook and advertising.

Jamice Hammond and Sara Ellen Stroup have capably shared the responsibilities as co-business managers. Battling against time . . . enduring the headaches of financial dealings . . . they have planned, worked, and used their time unstintingly. Mr. Brooks has been most helpful and cooperative in his first year as business advisor.

Business staff members Jody Raulston, Elizabeth Rogers, Julie Rogers, Billy Hewgley, and Jean Barker work at the printing company to get the proof ready for press.

The long process of publishing a school paper begins with news assembled by Jan Taylor and Billy Killian, two of the many reporters. Marie Foutch types the copy while Joey Barker and Pam Taylor help plan the makeup. Jim Beene combines the makeup with the copy and sends the draft to the printer. Jim Carter and Willene Witcher take charge of the distribution to their classes. Satisfied freshman staff members, Margaret Ann Stroup and Tommy Deakins view the finished newspapers.

This year the "Orange and Black" has given up its old home in the town Hustler and has established itself as the first printed SPHS newspaper in twenty-four years.

The Tennessee High School Press Association has awarded the "Orange and Black" an Excellent rating in competition with hundreds of other school newspapers across the state.

The newspaper staff of 1965 hopes that in publishing a school paper it has established a tradition that will not be soon broken.

This year the establishment of a senior screening board, which has reviewed all prospective members, has emphasized the significance of Y-Teen responsibilities. Girls approved by the board were officially inducted at a symbolic candlelight service. Passing along the flame of "strength and unity, freedom and brotherhood" Janie Smith and Jane Woodfin join with other Y-Teen members in accepting the challenge of building a better world.

Interest in Year's Activities

By sponsoring bake, rummage, and potato chip sales, girls have raised money with which to finance their service projects and other activities. A Little Sister party at Christmas brings gifts, games, and laughter to ten small girls in the community. Other activities include a formal dance in late fall and a banquet in early spring.

The Senior Y-Teens don their prettiest dresses and display their nicest manners as they form the receiving line for the mother-daughter tea.

Pep and Letterman's Clubs Unite

Occasional losses do not dampen Pep Club enthusiasm. Through parades, bonfires, and pep rallies, members rouse the student body when spirits threaten to drag. With victory signs and a few "good words", they transform deflated egos into an excited throng of Pirate fans.

During basketball season the Letterman's Club does its part to increase interest and game turn-out through initiation antics which attract laughter from both sides of the court.

to Strengthen Pirate Support

By combining the enthusiasm of the Pep and Letterman's clubs, presidents Jamice Hammond and Mick Wilson with vice presidents Jim Beene and Janet Williams, invigorate Pirate support throughout the season.

Chiefly an honor organization, the Letteman's Club upholds the dignity of school athletics and encourages good sportsmanship on the field and court.

Second year Latin students are honored this year as members of the Junior Classical League. Sponsored and instructed by Mrs. Mary Florence Smith, they are the first to be affiliated with this national organization.

During Latin Week members of the JCL apply their knowledge to constructive projects which help them correlate history and language study with the realistic aspects of classical civilization. Included in the week's activities is Latin night, when students exhibit their projects and present an informative program for the public. Eugene Smith displays his Roman garden for Diane Cooley, Bill Killian, and Sharon Vinson.

The English Club, sponsored by Miss Anne Metz, is composed of three sections of Sophomore English students who in separate monthly meetings present planned programs revolving around subjects of current interest. By collecting and transporting magazines to the local hospital, they render service to the community.

The Spanish Club functions as a supplementary aid in understanding the culture and customs of Spanish-speaking peoples. Students interested in studying the language compose its membership. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Hamby, the club takes advantage of Spanish culture.

The officers include: Jimmy Taylor, president; Reba Holt, vice president; Gary Wynne, sergeant-at-arms; Violet Gibson, secretary and treasurer; Bill McGraw, sergeant-at-arms; and Linda Cagle, reporter.

Representing the three classes are the presidents, Bob Hargis, Bill McGraw, and Tommy Shook; the secretaries, Sheila McGraw, Jody Raulston, and Jan Taylor; and the treasurers, Paul Turney, Linda Stone, and Sharon Vinson.

Under the direction of Mrs. Phyllis Griffith, the Future Homemakers of America organization works to give girls a basis for domestic or vocational work in home economics and related fields. While learning the skills of homemaking, members work toward various degrees of achievement and sponsor several activities. These include a Hawaiian luau, a "Dad-ly-Date Night," and a fashion show. Sheila McGraw, Linda Allen, Patricia Fugatt, Susan Woodfin, and Nancy Wilson have modeled their creations for the student body and the public.

Annually, three delegates of the chapter attend the state FHA convention in Nashville and bring back new and interesting ideas for coming years.

Assistants Lend a Hand in Learning

The Library Staff exists solely as a service organization. During the school year 1964-65, twenty-five girls have volunteered their free time to assist in assuring SPHS a smoothly-run library. Together with Miss Neff, these girls have the care of approximately six thousand books. Their duties range from shelf-reading and checking books out to dusting and arranging bulletin boards. The girls receive no credit for their work; their only reward is the sense of a job well done and of having rendered service to others.

Efficient, accommodating, and industrious library workers are under the supervision of Miss Wilma Neff, librarian, and Elaine Lehr, president of the staff.

Angela Teber, Elizabeth Rogers, and Connie Cullom find weekly shelf-reading duty pleasurable and instructive.

Parham Leads Council . . . Voices Student Opinion

The 1964-65 Student Council has undertaken some of the most ambitious projects in the history of the organization. Among these are the printing of a school handbook and the purchasing of equipment for the new school. They have also sponsored intramurals, political debates, and the talent show.

Mr. Warren, advisor, and Melvin Blevins, president-elect, look forward to using the new intercom system which the council helped purchase.

President, CURTIS PARHAM

It is the important job of a Student Council president to keep the student body well-informed on the council's activities and plans. Curtis Parham, by his effective orations and satirical wit, has stimulated individual interest which has helped to establish a meaningful relationship between the students and their school government.

Things We Have Learned in High School

SOPHOMORES:

- Mrs. Parsons will actually stomp her foot when angered.
- Mr. Storey will hit you when angered.
- Miss Metz will fail you when angered.
- Yul Brynner did not write The King and I.
- Holding your breath as you pass the cafeteria fans is an excellent way to preserve your appetite.

FRESHMEN:

- All pi is not good - especially in algebra class.
- A freshman makes a good floormat for the upper-classmen to walk on.
- Mr. Hewgley is about the smartest person alive.
- Latin is Greek when you are stupid.
- "X" can sure be a lot of trouble.

JUNIORS:

- Most geometric figures are composed of lines, either straight or curved.
- The library is a perfect place to go the day after you have had a hard night.
- An excellent way of disrupting study hall is setting off "cracker balls."
- An excellent way of getting expelled is getting caught with "cracker balls."
- Thomas Jefferson did some of his best writing with a turkey feather.

SENIORS:

- Teaching a new study hall teacher "the ropes" can be fun.
- A valedictorian is usually smart.
- A pipe makes you look "cool" - whether you smoke it or not.
- Having a party and letting the juniors pay for it is a good way to have fun.
- Having fun is a good way to avoid graduation.

A misty haze of laughing faces.
A fading echo of footsteps
hurrying toward half-open doors of half-filled classrooms.

A lingering memory of a familiar, scarred desk
in a musty study hall.
A flickering cavalcade of the fragrance and the fervor of the high school years . . .
the rose-colored years . . .
the young years.
